

Expanding the frontiers of social innovation theory: heterodox theories, non-positivist paradigms and embedded qualitative methodologies

Chair: Pascal Dey

We invite papers utilising heterodox theories, non-positivist paradigms and embedded qualitative methodologies (such as ethnography) in order to stimulate a discussion around:

- a. possible limitations around the way social innovation research uses theory and / or the the theories it casually invokes, and;
- b. promising ways out of this impasse
